"Piping down the village hill,
Piping songs of phoebus give,
On a cloud I saw a child,
And he laughing said to me—

"Pipe a song about a Lamb!"
So I piped with merry cheer,
"Pipe, pipe that song again,
So I piped: he went to hear.

"Drop thy pipe, thy happy cheer!
Sing the songs of happy cheer!"
So I sang the same again,
While he went with joy to hear.

"Pipe, sit thee down and write In a book, that all may read!"
So he vanished from my sight;
And I plucked a hollow weed,

And I made a rural pen,
And I staid the water clear,
And I wrote my happy songs
Every child may joy to hear.

Just a handful of people met Schmeling when he landed, and these were probably relatives or news reporters.

A FARMER'S MUSINGS

(By Tim Longbottom)

Now that Mussolini has decreed that the name of "Hot Dogs" be changed into something more Italian in character, how would "Ethiopian Nuggets" fill the bill?

This would remind the black shirted warriors of the Duce of the great treacheries which were to enrich them after their dusky opponents had been put to flight.

Their rewards so far, have consisted of malaria fever, bone from swine and higher priced tobacco and wine.

Once upon a time trotting the horse tail used to be a highly popular international pastime, but this has been changed into tossing the Scotch.

Learned geeks of different nationalities have lately told the tale that the bagpipes originated in Egypt, whisky in Central Africa, and that the sons of Bonnie Scotland cannot claim to be pure bred Aryans.

Last winter a Radio speaker described Sir Walter Scott as "that great Englishman" and the father of a scientific journal.

He wrote that the inventor of the telephone, born in Edinburgh, first saw the light of day in Nova Scotia.

Maybe while another guy will get up to announce that Adolf Lang Syne, used to be the little rascal of the Fiji Islanders.

CHANGING OF SENTIMENT

Some of the best of the many changes throughout the earth since the war of 1914-18 has been the remarkable switching of sentiment in Europe and Asia.

The year of 1915 saw Japan and Italy arrayed against Germany, but the three powers are now linked to gether for future action.

Turkey is again fortifying the Danubian, and the money is being furnished by British whose activities revealed the Old Ottoman Empire to a considerable extent.

Poland was Roborn when the treaty of Versailles was signed, and her present army was organized along French lines and with French money.

She is now afraid of Russia, distinctly cold to France, and on good terms with Germany.

The Little Entente is in the game for what it can get out of it, and there is a strong possibility that the outbreak of war would see its members fighting against each other with all their old time deadly animosity.

LUCKY CANADIANS

Although of short duration, the visit of President Roosevelt was of the most interesting nature.

His declaration, made on two separate occasions, that the U. S. A. would defend the Dominion against any future aggressor, was a noble gesture of friendship, and one which appeared to be well received on both sides of the international line.

As a people, Canadians are extremely fortunate in many respects. On one hand is a wealthy and powerful nation, with territory enough for all her requirements and whose sons and daughters are kindly disposed to the folk on the northern side of the long unfortified border.

As a part of the world wide British Empire, Canada enjoys many other valuable privileges.

Between her and troubled Europe are the steel clad ships of the most formidable navy on the high seas, at the prestige of and inland Kingdom long renowned for her sagacious statesmen and fighting men.

Trade agreements with the Motherland and the U. S. A. along with the flow of capital from both countries, have secured optimal markets for the Dominion's numerous products and brought a swift development of her natural resources.

Well may the people of less fortunate lands look to the upper half of the North American continent, to exclaim with a touch of envy "Lucky Canadians."

THE COLD SHOULDER

The chilly reception given to Schmeling on his return to his native land was another reminder that success is the only thing to inspire good will and respect in the breasts of others.

Just a handful of people met Schmeling when he landed, and these were probably relatives or news reporters.

The skill and courage displayed by the German fighting man, on numerous occasions, meeting a much warmer welcome than he received, but it isn't the way of human nature to waste any sympathy on fallen heroes.

Serve Chef's Salad At Home

By BETTY BARCLAY

One of my best recent "finds" in the kitchen is a delicious chicken mousse. I have found it is also a favorite of one of the most famous chefs in the world. He is Gaston Magnin, premier chef of the world's largest ocean liner, the S.S. Normandie.

His recipes produce food that would travelers look forward to enjoying when anticipating a trip and always remember afterward.

He salads would delight the eye and palate of any housewife in any land, I am sure. This photograph he gave me, with the recipe ready for the thousands of hungry passengers during a party on the Normandie.

The recipe I chose, and which he permitted me to pass on to my readers, is made with a prepared salad solatin found on the Amer-

HITLER AND PEACE

It is not generally believed that Hitler wants war. He is however setting in such a manner as to tax to the very utmost, the forbearance of France and Britain. Conditions in Europe are critical and tension is no high as to require the greatest diplomacy to ward off a major outbreak. It would be wise if Hitler would look back a few years to the fate of the former Kaiser, and profit by the disappointed hopes of Wilhelm. History repeats itself.

THE STRATHMORE HIGH SCHOOL

THERE'S always a voice saying the right thing to you somewhere. If you'll only listen for it. — Thomas Hughes.

SCHOOL OPENING, SEPT. 1st

Considered in an abstract sense, this school is typical of thousands of others from Vancouver to Halifax who will open their doors Thursday. Sept. 1st to receive pupils who are prospecting and being prepared to take their places of responsibility in the coming years in a very complex and distraught world.

From the little red or white school on the prairie, sometimes sadly isolated, sometimes happily located, to the larger schools of the towns, to the High Schools and to the University, (a little later) they come this forward looking youthful army. To the Mary's and Johnny's starting their school career, they leave an anxious and hopeful mother to cross the threshold of the school to face with more or less trepidation in their hearts, the Teacher who is to direct their activities, and be their pattern, directly and indirectly.

The Teacher, who also may be making a new start in this field of responsibility may feel just as much in war trepidation, as he takes on the responsible position of teaching and guiding in a hundred unclassified ways the children under his care.

But as we learn to do by doing so the true teacher grows and develops through his experience.

The citizen, without, responsibility grows as knowledge grows, and early more advanced grade brings further responsibilities, that carry on and on for all of life is a school, to him who would learn.

In this complex state of society it could not be expected that a calm, untroubled and unchanging school system should remain. Not the modern educationalists, are striving to "better" the established methods of their forefathers.

And so we have, in the new programme of Studies for Alberta Schools.

1.—A broad perspective in education with recognition of the only knowledge, but also of skills, habits, appreciations, attitudes, and idealized objectives.

2.—A reaction against the mechanical routine of formal instruction, with the substitution of pupil for teacher activity.

3.—Recognition in the programme of training for personal and social efficiency and emotional control.

4.—General acceptance of the principle that the purpose of education is fundamentally social, and that an understanding of the social environment is quite as necessary as an understanding of the physical environment.

5.—Belief in the ideals of democracy and in the possibility of maintaining them through education.

All will agree with Bertrand Russell when he states, that a knowledge of utility is not the sole aim of education. In truth we feel that it is scarcely possible, for many an unlettered man may—may does have a profound understanding of many things not purely utilitarian.

Again we quote from Bertrand Russell: "The great stimulus in education is to feel that achievement is possible. Knowledge which is felt to be boring is of little use, but knowledge which is assimilated eagerly becomes a permanent possession."

THEY ALSO FARM...

...WHO IN THE MACHINE SHOP WORK

Not for some time now could farming have been practised on the small scale style familiar in the world of yesterday.

If today we had to rely on the old-time cradle methods of cutting and garnering the crop, it would take every able-bodied man in every province of our Dominion to harvest the average wheat crop of Western Canada. Thanks, however, to modern farm machinery, with practically no seasonal increase in hired labor, the farmer is able to take care of even the heaviest of harvests. The making of the machines for harvesting is but a transference of labor from the field to the factory.

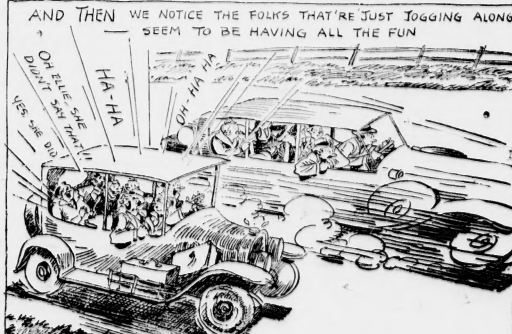

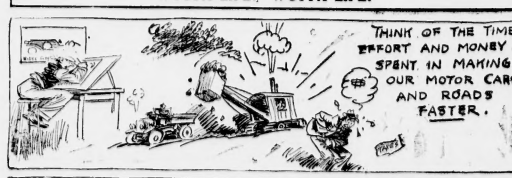

Instead of the short seasonal engagement during the rush days of harvest, the implement worker is given longer periods of employment, and the days he spends in making farm equipment lessens the number of men required in the farm field. Thus, these men, during the winter months, help make short work of garnering greater crops during the few and fleeting days of harvest season, and so many of the men thus engaged have themselves come from farm homes.

It was only natural when turning their faces city-wards, that men from the farm should first seek employment with a company whose name to them had been a household word.

In Massey-Harris, whose origin ninety years ago was on a farm, these one-time farmers find a rather logical expression for their abilities in the mechanized side of farming—for while in large or machine shop—they also farm.

 FROM HUSSAR
 An unusual phenomenon occurred on Sunday morning when the Rockies could be seen on the far horizon. The but the outlines of the mountains re-believe that this never was seen from the Hussar district before.

 But write, for so it's written right.

THE IMPORTANCE OF PRICE

To the wheat producer the price of his product is a matter of first importance.
 That is why the Alberta Wheat Pool fights so strenuously for price protection.
 Single handed amidst the trade, it has striving to place the wheat price question in its proper light before all Canada.

In such a campaign it needs support and encouragement from the farm population.
 This can best be done by delivering grain to—

DEATH OF J. A. WILSON

John A. Wilson, general merchant of Langdon died Wednesday from the effects of an explosion which occured in the basement of the National Fruit Co. Friday, August 27th.

Death came to Mr. Wilson just as property had returned to Langdon.
 He is survived by his wife, three sons Billy aged four and Du and two and one half years, his father and other relatives who mourn the loss of a devoted husband, father and friend.

WORLD WHEAT SITUATION

—:—:—:—:
 New seasonal low levels were the order during the past week as wheat price hit the skids with absence of any sustained buying an important factor. Futures quotations at Winnipeg, all United States markets, and Buenos Aires recorded new lows on at least two occasions with bottom levels reached in the closing sessions.
 Chicago prices broke five-year lows, while Buenos Aires values were the poorest since 1925.

HARVESTING AT CEREAL

—:—:—:—:
 The past week has been clear and warm resulting in the grain ripening rapidly and the song of the binder is heard in every direction. What the yield will be is problematical but it is thought that it will run somewhere between ten and fifteen bushels per acre and of a good grade.

Race fans will not another chance to enjoy the thrill of thundering hoofs as thoroughbred racing commenced on August 27 to September 3 at the Chisock oval. Sponsored by the Prairie Thoroughbred Breeders Association there is every indication of a very interesting meet providing the weather man behaves. Large crowds are expected and Labor Day should make an all time record.

Well, at last the pigskin has been started off and the moth balls have been shaken loose as Carl Cronin leaves a mighty sigh and sends his well tutored Brouce against the Edmonton Eskimos to open the grid season by an exhibition tilt at the Northern city, the result, Edmonton 1, and Calgary 35 and the season is away.

Walter Franklin, Canadian middleweight boxer from Hamilton, Ont.
 made a great impression on New York pugilistic experts when he handed Ed-Frankie Castiglia of Brooklyn senseless in 3 rounds. It was a great surprise to Madison Square Garden fans.

N. H. L. prospects for this winter do not look bright for Cecil Hart, manager of the Montreal Canadiens as he will not be able to scrap with Tommy Gorman as Gorman's Maroons will not operate as a club this coming season. Financial difficulties and lack of home support are the reasons for the Maroons suspension as a team.
 There has been some talk of selling the complete roster to St. Louis interests but no confirmation of these rumors has yet been received. If the Maroons are sold, the N. H. L. will be reduced to seven teams, namely—
 The Toronto Leafs; New York Rangers; Boston Bruins; Chicago Hawks and the lone Montreal Canadiens.

Mixed doubles— Jamieson and Tieberg defeated Harold Freeman and C.
 Lambert 9-3; Mr and Mrs H. Freeman defeated McCullough and Mc-Cullough 9-8; D. Perry and Dorothy Freeman defeated McMullin and Miss Higgins 9-2; Tieberg and McCullough defeated J. O'Hallahan and Margaret Freeman 9-7; K. Wright and D. Freeman defeated Beil and McCullough 9-7.

Ladies doubles— Margaret Freeman and Mrs H. Freeman were defeated by Isabel Lannon and Miss Mc-Cullough 9-7; D. Freeman and B.
 Higgins were defeated by Miss Wiegman and I. Lannon 9-3.
